BLOOD AT UNION ELECTION.

CHICAGO FEDERATION BALLOT BOXES ARE SMASHED.

One of the Judges Beaten Into Insensibility by Sluggers of the Group That Were Anxious to Elect O'Nelli President o the Federation and Defeat Dold

CHICAGO, July 16.-Bloodshed marked the semi-annual election of officers of the Chicago Federation of Labor to-day. At the point of revolvers the judges and clerks of election were faced against the wall while a gang of sluggers smashed the ballot boxes, tore up the ballots and beat Michael Donnelly, president of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butchers, into insen-

Following the assault on Donnelly, who was one of the judges of election and who was relied upon by the honest element to see that the votes were honestly cast and counted, the election was called off. Charles Dold, president of the central body, declared to-night that the happenings of the day had made him more determined than ever to have an honest election in spite of the bulldozing tactics of the machine leaders. A new election will be set at the next meeting. The raid on the ballot boxes happened about noon. Who the men were that held up the clerks and slugged Donnelly no one seemed to know, or if they did they were afraid to tell.

Threats were made before the polls opened, at 90'clock, that unless J. F. O'Neill was elected there would be no election. For several days it has been known that there would be a fight made on Dold, and publication of the fact in the newspapers brought out his friends in large numbers. The opposition is believed to have resorted to the tactics which broke up the election. Dennis O'Toole, a member of the painters' Dennis O'Toole, a member of the painters' union, was doorkeeper, and he was instructed not to allow any one to enter the hall except those who had cards showing they were entitled to vote. Suddenly a man appeared at the door of the hall, and when it was opened he asked O'Toole whether he was for or against Dold. "It's none of your business," responded O'Toole, and he tried to shut the door, when he was brushed and eight or ten sluggers entered the

When the sluggers entered the hall they drew revolvers and told the judges and clerks to face the wall quickly. Donnelly was in a room in the rear of the hall and did not hear what was going on until the other judges and clerks had been securely looked in a room behind the platform. When Donnelly entered the hall he missed his fellow clerks and saw the ballot boxes smashed. A man whose name he does not his fellow clerks and saw the ballot boxes amashed. A man whose name he does not know, but who he says is a delegate, stepped up and told him he was wanted outside. SALE OF WELSH COAL LANDS. Syndicate Gets the Whitworth Estate of 6,000 Acres.

Special Cable Despatches to THE SUN.
BERLIN, July 16.-The Voseiche Zeitung confirms the report published in London that a German syndicate has purchased the Whitworth estate of 6,000 acres in South Wales, which is a valuable coal field. The well known Hamburg firm of De Freitas belongs to the syndicate.

LONDON, July 16.—Telegrams from Wales still express doubt of the sale of coal properties to a German syndicate. The Whitworth estate has, however, undoubtedly been examined by Germans. The coal there has not been worked for many years. The lower measures, where steam coal is said to be at a depth of over 1,000 yards, can only be reached at immense cost.

PROBING THE COTTON SCANDAL.

The President's Letter Urging Action in the Case of Holmes Is Having Its Effect. Washington, July 16.-President Roosevelt's strong letter to Attorney-General Moody urging speedy action in the case of Holmes, the former Associate Statistician in the Department of Agriculture, and directing that nothing be left undone to secure evidence upon which to indict, has created a good deal of comment at Wash-It will have the effect, it is believed, of bringing to the Department officials a realization that the President is very much in earnest, and that it will result in a more thorough investigation of the Division of Statistics is accepted as certain While the announcement has been made that the methods of the division are now being carefully scrutinized, no information is obtainable as to exactly who has the work in charge. Morgan H. Beach, the United States District Attorney, has the assistance of a number of special agents in his endeavors to find evidence against Holmes that will stand the test of judicial procedure. But Mr. Beach's inquiry is with a view of criminal proceedings, and he, of course, is not charged with the duty of making recommendations for improved administration. The suggestion has been made here that the investigation into the business methods of the Division of Statistics, as should be entrusted to some man peculiarly qualified for such work. Joseph L. Bristow, former Fourth Assistant Postmaster General, who conducted the postal investiga-tion with such signal success, has been suggested. He has practically concluded work with the Panama Canal Commission, and it has been proposed by at least one official here that Mr. Bristow should be commissioned to make a thorough investigation in the Department of Agriculture. Doubt is expressed, however, that Mr. Bristow could be induced to take up

While the Division of Statistics is under fire, and its methods have been condemned most vigorously by representatives of the Southern Cotton Growers' Association, Chief Statistian Hyde continues to remain on guard. In a sense, if official statements are to be credited, he is investigating him-self. No charge has been made since the cotton scandal blossomed forth a few months ago affecting Mr. Hyde's integrity as a officer. His capacity as an executive and his ability to handle crop reports have been attacked in a most vigorous manner, and the Southern Cotton Growers' Association will not consider its work complete until

Mr. Hyde has been removed. Mr. Hyde has been removed.

Lack of funds might possibly prevent
Secretary Wilson from authorizing a new report covering cotton acreage, but he has agreed with the cotton representatives that the exact facts in the field should be known. The chances are, therefore, that Secretary Wilson will announce to-morrow that a re

CASTRO OPENS NEW PORTS.

Move to Prevent the Diversion of Customs to the Payment of Venezuela's Debts. WASHINGTON, July 16 .- Official advices have been received here indicating a new move on the part of President Castro of Venezuela to circumvent the diversion of customs to the payment of that Government's debts. This is being accomplished by the establishment of new ports of entry to draw from those ports now under control of the nation's creditors. Eight new ports of entry have been established by executive decree within a few months.

In a recent report to the Department of Commerce and Labor Carl Bailey Hurst, Consul at La Guayra, writes of the establishment of the new ports:

"By a presidential decree dated May 22. 1905, a custom house was established at 1905, a custom nouse was established at Carenero, about seventy-five miles east of La Guayra. Carenero is said to have an indifferent harbor, but is in a famous cocoa growing center, the product of which heretofore has been exported to the United States and Europe by way of La Guayra, but which will now be made direct from the new port. This will, of course, take trade from La Guayra. The outward trade from the start will be diverted in a great degree, and the imports will be gradually degree, and the imports will be gradually deflected to the new port, so that the interior of the country will be wholly supplied through this channel. Steamship lines that touch at La Guayra are placing Carenero on their schedules, and the chief commis-sion houses of La Guayyra are establishing branch offices at the new port.

In addition to the new ports of Care-nero and Tecucas the six following cus-tom houses have been established by Excountive decree within a few months: Barrancas, on the Orinoco, competing with Ciudad Bolivar; Cristoba, Colon, which will divert trade from British Trinidad; Cano Colorado (reopened); Rio Caribe, near the old port of Carupano, and Pampatar, on the Island of Margarita, a port free for all merchandiae with few executions were payment of 10 per cent. entry, and Cebia, on the Lake of Maracaibo."

LANGDON LEAVES MRS. WILSON

TELLS HER HE'LL BE ARRESTED IF HE STAYS IN THE STATE.

She Doubts Him at First, and Weeps When He Departs-Is Now Without Money or Friends, but Will Recover From the Wound She Inflicted Upon Herself.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., July 16 .- Mrs. Janet Wilson, the escaped patient from the Hudson River Hospital for the Insane at Poughkeepsie, who attempted suicide in the Riverview Hotel in Milford, last evening, was reported at the Bridgeport Hospital to-night as resting comfortably and in a fair way to recover, unless there should develop uncoked for symptoms.

Accompanied by Walter Judson of Stratford, a former classmate in a Washington electrical school, Walter Langdon tade farewell to Mrs. Wilson in the hospital this evening. Langdon told her that he had received information advising him to get out of the State of Connecticut as soon as possible if he wanted to avoid arrest. It is said that this intelligence came from his father, Dr. Charles Langdon, assistant superintendent of the Hudson River State Insane Hospital, from which Mrs. Wilson escaped and fled with Langdon on July 5.

Langdon had his friend Judson corroborate his statement, which Mrs. Wilson was first inclined to doubt. She accused Langdon of deserting her in her trouble, but he succeeded in convincing her that it was necessary for him to get away. The true nature of the charge that he feared might be made against him is not stated. The departure of Langdon had a depressing effect on Mrs. Wilson, who wept and showed signs of another attack of despondency. She is now without money or friends, and if she recovers she will probably be taken back to the insane asylum.

The .22 caliber bullet which entered the left side of Mrs. Wilson's breast, is said by the physicians to have dropped into the lung cavity. The statement yesterday that the bullet had been removed was an error The physicians probed for it and decided to give it up for the night and hold a consultation this morning. This course was followed, and it was decided to-day not to make any further effort to extricate the lead. The hospital authorities say that the bullet might possibly induce some dangerous symptoms, but probably will not. as the records of such cases are in favor of the patient.

Ex-Congressman Philip P. Low of New York, father of Mrs. Wilson, was notified by telephone late last night of his daughter's plight. He did not say that he would visit her, and up to this writing has not visited the hospital and is not expected.

300.000 AT CONEY ISLAND. One of the Summer's Largest Crowds

-The Lost Children Crop. One of the largest crowds of the season visited Coney Island yesterday. It was estimated that not less than 300,000 persons were at the island. The beaches were crowded all day, and not at any time in the history of the island was there such a num ber of bathers as could be seen at 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon. At the foot of West Twenty-third street. an open beach adjoining several bathing pavilions, the police drove bathers off the sands, saying that the property was private. A patrolman in uniform was stationed at the beach, and whenever a bather ran across the sand or stretched out for a sun bath he was ordered to move on and told that he must not again trespass on the property. For many years this particular stretch of beach has been the favorite place for certain Coney Islanders and their friends to bathe. The lost children crop was a record. Shortly before dark and until long after night had fallen a score of mothers were seated on the steps of the entrance to the police station waiting for tidings. Every other relicement other policeman on his return from post carried in his arms a child who had been lost. As soon as he arrived he was almost mobbed by the mothers. About fifty children were cared for at the station and turned over to their parents by the matrons.

The crowd was a late one and thousands stayed overnight. The police had a busy time of it. Most of the arrests were for intoxication and disorderly conduct.

BASEBALL ON SUNDAY, FREE. Dillon Park at New Rochelle to Be Used Despite the Sheriff.

NEW ROCHELLE. July 16 .- The baseball games at Dillon Park, which were stopped by Sheriff Merritt and District Attorney Young early this season, were resume to-day, when a crowd of 2,000 persons saw the United States Artillery team from Fort Slocum defeat the Rough Riders by a score of 6 to 2.

The ball grounds are owned by ex-Mayor Dillon, who leased them to Samuel Deveaugh, a local baseball enthusiast. Deveaugh got around the order of the county authorities by letting the crowd in free. It is now announced that, despite the petition of 500 church people of New Rochelle, there will be ball games at the park every Sunday for the remainder of the season. On next Sat-urday Mayor Clarke will umpire a game. It is said that Sheriff Merritt will not molest the players so long as no admission is charged to the grounds.

STORM ON MAINE COAST. Fishermen Lost-Sallors Were Cut b Hallstones.

Machias, Me., July 16.—The worst storm in years struck here yesterday. Many small vessels were wrecked and the larger ones had their sails carried away. The body of Percy Foster, a fisherman, came ashore to-day. Another fisherman, Arthur Davis, is supposed to have been lost, as his boat was washed in empty. W. W. Grey's yacht sank at Cross Island. The crews of several vessels which have come to this port are badly cut by hailstones.

TWICE BEATEN BY CLUBMEN. Mount Vernon Citizen Set Upon While

Walking With His Wife. MOUNT VERNON, July 16 .- H. K. Keller, monument dealer, while on his way home with his wife at midnight on Saturday was set on by three men, knocked down and beaten. Keller found Patrolman Conklin and caused the arrest of W. H. Irwin, a member of the Siwanoy Country Club and a sales man for a carriage establishment in New York. Irwin says he is innocent. Mrs. Keller assisted her husband, following his assailants and seizing the hat of one of them. The hat contained the initials "T. W. S. P." and is now in the possession of the police.

Mr. Irwin was arraigned before Judge Simpson, who is also a member of the Siwanoy Club, and pleaded not guilty. His hearing was set down for Tuesday, Sydney Wood of the same club appeared as

Irw in's counsel. Mr. Keller's face was covered with bruises last night. There was a lump over his left temple as big as a golf ball. Mr. Keller says he was returning with his wife from a trolley ride, and when near his home in Park avenue saw three men staggering down the street. He and his wife made room on the sidewalk for them to pass. As they reached Mr. and Mrs. Keller, it is alleged, they pushed them into a hedge. When Mr. Keller remonstrated one of them exclaimed: "Get out of our way, or we will put your eye out."

"No, you won't," said Keller, and with this, he says, the three sprang upon him and knocked him down.

While Keller was on the ground, he says, the men struck him several times in the face and then kicked him. When he reface and then kicked him. When he regained his feet he said "this is no way to use a gentleman returning home with his

Mr. Keller accept his apology and withdraw the charge against him.

Mr. Keller said to-night: "No apology can fix up my face. Look at it. It is a sight. I intend to press the charge against Irwin, and will try my best to learn the names of his friends and punish them. I blame them more than Irwin.

"Irwin said to-night: "I am innocent of this charge. I was walking ahead of two other young men when Mr. Keller made a remark which sounded to me like "drunks," the two men behind me then ran back at him. I went up and parted them. I committed no assault."

HER BEER CAN ONLY KINDLING. Saloonkeeper, Caught Once, Plays a Joke on the Excise Detectives.

A woman came out of the side door Dan Tierney's saloon at Van Vorst and York streets, Jersey City, yesterday afternoon with something under her apron. Chief of Police Benjamin Murphy, who was standing at a window in police headquarters, a block away, looking for excise violations, suspected that the woman was smuggling a pail of beer out of the barroom. He notifi d pail of beer out of the barroom. He nothed the sergeant at the desk in the First precinct station on the first floorof the headquarters building to get busy, and Policernan Dundon was instructed to investigate. Dundon didn't catch the woman, but he had no trouble in getting into the saloon. He found three negroes in the barroom and the proprietor behind the bar. He arrested Tierney for doing business on Sunday and took him to the station house.

Tierney was bailed out and four hours

Tierney was bailed out and four hours later the chief saw another woman enter the same side door. He again telephoned downstairs, and Policeman Curry was sent ownstairs, and Fonceman curry was sent over to catch her coming out. When she reappeared the chief noticed from his window that she carried something under a shawl. The cop detected the "bunch" and told her to surrender the can of beer. ## WE LOSE FOREIGN MARKETS.

FACTS FROM "DAILY CONSULAR AND TRADE REPORTS."

In South America European Manufacturers Control the Markets Only Because They Furnish the Cheaper Goods Which the People Can Afford to Buy.

WASHINGTON, July 16 .- The issue of the Daily Consular Reports," which has been a feature of the Department of Commerce and Labor, will show an improvement, beginning to-morrow, that will be appreciated by the commercial world. The title of the report will hereafter be the "Daily Consular and Trade Reports. In the future the daily issue will carry not only the reports of American Consuls. but will have a department of commercial and trade news, and comment made up from authoritative but unofficial sources. which is likely to prove very valuable. This innovation is the idea of Major John M. Carson, the new chief of the Bureau of Corporations. The bureau issues about ,000 copies daily of this pamphlet.

Mr. Lincoln Hutchinson, special agent of the Department of Commerce and Labor, who is investigating trade conditions in South America, in his first report, written from the State of Pernambuco, points out the reasons why European manufacturers have advantage over the Americans in that market.

"The Great Western Brazilian Railway controls the lion's share of the 500 odd miles of railroad," he says. "It is an English concern."

He says that the equipments of the road are imported from England and that the equipments of cotton factories and sugar mills are of English make.

"Not only is it true that the industrial enterprises of the country thus tend to draw their equipments from Europe," he says, "but most of the employees, managers, superintendents, clerks, operatives, dc., naturally purchase goods to which they have been accustomed at home, and they have been accustomed at home, and American goods, even though they may be better and cheaper, are likely to be Agent Hutchinson says the French have practically the entire market for canned butter, "because the Americans have not butter, "because the Americans have not yet learned to preserve the butter so that it will keep as well in a tropical climate as the French. The small French tins are also more readily salable to people whose poverty precludes their buying a large quantity at a time or using it rapidly."

Another reason offered for the failure of Americans to control the market, he says, is "the extreme poverty" of the consuming classes, who "can afford to buy only the cheapest and flimsiest grades of commed-cheapest and filmsiest grades of commedities, and most of the American goods offered are too good for them." He adds:

"Some of the articles used here, even in the best hotels (such as candlesticks, forks and spoons, inkstands, &c.), are of a kind which it would be difficult to find even in the present house, in the United States. which it would be difficult to find even in the poorest homes in the United States. To the mass of the people, the price of even these almost worthless articles is prohibitive. Yet these goods are of a kind which it is not an uncommon thing to see in use among the peasantry of Europe, especially in Germany."

The report quotes a former consular officer and are tracked.

The report quotes a former consular officer and an attaché of the Philadelphia Commercial Museum:

"One of the great obstacles to the promotion of our trade which have come to my notice through the experience mentioned is the fact that the American manutioned is the fact that the American manufacturer, having a surplus in any way, makes a dash for the foreign market; through the superiority of his goods creates a demand, and then, as soon as the home market consumes this surplus, ignores entirely the foreign demand which he has created and destroys a promising market." created and destroys a promising market."

Consul-General Guenther of Frankfort has discovered that the German people are raising the same cry against trusts and syndicates that is often heard in this country. He says:
"Complaints come from many industries that the trusts and syndicates sell their products to foreign manufacturers at much lower prices than they compel German industries to pay, thus benefiting foreign competition and injuring German exports of manufactured articles, where forms the principal item of cost."

MRS. GRANNIS QUIT? NEVER! Yows She'll Not Get Out of Paster Den-

ham's Church of the Disciples. Mrs. E. B. Grannis, president of the Purity League, took occasion yesterday to deny that she had been in any way responsible for the recent trouble in the hurch of the Disciples of Christ, in Wes-Fifty-sixth street. Two weeks ago resolutions were passed by a large vote at a prayer meeting which supported the pastor and demanded Mrs. Grannis's resignation.

Mrs. Grannis has not resigned. She says hat she is just as brave as the" boy who stood on the burning deck," and that she means to stick. The present conspiracy will never force her to resign, vows Mrs. Grannis. "I am an aggressive and terrific type of worker," she proclaims.

"I wish it to be plainly understood," she said yesterday, "that the Church to which I belong is a strictly evangelical body and in no sense one which could come under the head of Christian Science or any other ism and there are no negroes among its head of Christian Science or any other ism, and there are no negroes among its membership. A number of inquiries have reached me such as: 'Why I never suspected you of being a Christian Scientist!: and 'The behavior of your Church faction at its prayer meeting was like what I have read of in ignorant negro churches.'

"I shall certainly not resign. There have been no charges preferred against me. I refuse to be the victim of a conspiracy on the part of whoever engineered the plot."

BRIDGE DYNAMITE SCARE. Block Tin "Cartridges" in Cop's Coffee Pail

Till the Man Who Understood Appeared. The cops on duty at the Brooklyn Bridge entrance won't soon forget the scare they had about 9:30 o'clock vesterday forenoon when Pat Duffy, one of the sweepers, came running down the promenade yelling, 'Dynamite, get out of the way!"

Policeman Farron, who is on duty at the runaway gate, got in front of Duffy and held him up.

"Where is the dynamite?" he asked. Duffy quieted down and led the cop withn twenty feet of the cartridges. They lay behind the gate—three of them-encased in block tin, "all ready to go off," except that the fuses were not lit. Farron ran down to the telephone booth and told Mitchell, the cop who was on duty there. "Better get 'em away from there before the sun gets too high—they'll go off osten-tatiously then," said Mitchell.
"What'll I do with 'em? Throw em in he river? "No, take them over to the station house Farron went back to the gate. He had tin pail of coffee to drink at lunch time, but drank the coffee at once, filled the pail with water, and with a long stick lifted the cartridges and dropped them in. Then he carried them to Brooklyn.

At the Washington street station house

there was much excitement until an electrican happened along. "They're dry batteries from some burg-lar's pocket electric lamp," he said.
"I wish I could catch the burglar," cried

SERGEANT FARRELL DROWNED. Member of Troop F. Eighth Cavalry, Lost in the St. Lawrence River.

CLAYTON, N. Y., July 16 .- At 10 o'clock this morning, at Maple Island, a mile east of this village, Sergt. Sylvester Farrell, Troop F, Eighth Cavalry, United States army, and an attaché of Capt. G. T. Summerlin of Washington, D. C., was drowned in the St. Lawrence River. The body was recovered early this evening.

Accompanied by three young women guests at the palatial summer residence of Gen. J. A. Johnson of Washington, Sergt. Farrell left Wintergreen Island at 9:30 o'clock this morning in a small private launch for church at Clayton. When in the vicinity of Maple Island his hat blew the vicinity of Maple Island his hat blew into the river. Reversing the engine, the sergeant attempted to reach the hat, but lost his balance and fell head foremost into the water. As he was unable to swim he disappeared almost immediately below the surface and did not rise again.

Sergt. Farrell had served as a cavalry officer in the Spanish war in Cuba and had also acted as private trumpeter for Capt. Summerlin. He was 40 years of age and is survived by a brother, James Farrell of New York.

anti-saloon box ordinance went into effect at midnight, and hereafter the proprietors of places containing boxes where liquor is sold are liable to arrest and prosecution. The law has been carried to the Supreme Court, where it was sustained, and Mayor Lane and the Chief of Police are determined to enforce it. Most of Portland's 500 saloons that contained private boxes have complied with the law and taken them out. Others have taken no action. Warrants against all who have not heeded the warning of the chief of police will be served tomorrow. Restaurants are included and caterers who are caught serving liquor in private rooms will be prosecuted.
